FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

De Pere, WI -

As artists, we have the opportunity to create works that can synthesize our cultural timeline with emotion. The works we make can help process the complex conversations we face as a society through the voice of visual art, poetry, and movement. For the month of November, newARTSpace welcomes guest curator Cristian Andersson and the first exhibition organized by fsm. The exhibition Roe v. Wade: a Conversation Through Art is a creative platform to share thoughts, perspectives, and histories, sometimes quite personal, other times factual or abstracted. Together, as an exhibition, this is a record of where we are as a society. And, it is part of a conversation about where we go from here.

The artists in this exhibition answered an open call placed by fsm. to share their viewpoints in whichever way they chose. The October issue of the fsm. arts journal (<https://fsm.ink>) serves as a companion to this exhibition.

For the opening reception, from 5 – 8pm on October 4th, there will be a poetry reading and movement performance. This show and the accompanying print issue were made possible through the generosity of newARTSpace to utilize their space, financial support from a grant from The Canary Fund, as well as community support, and the brave voices of the artist participants.

newARTSpace is a non-commercial gallery. Visiting the galleries at newARTSpace is free and open to all.
